MYSTERY ABOUT THIS DEATH.

Carrie Phillips Dies in a Hospital from Opium Poisoning. She Was Taken from a Fashionable Boarding-House.

Carrie Phillips, twenty-six years of age, died in St. Vincent's Hospital at 2:30 o'clock this morning from opium poisoning.

Mrs. Phillips was a pretty woman. For the past three or four months she had been living at the fashionable boarding-house kept by Mrs. Decker, at 49 Seventh avenue.

She was brought to the hospital at 5:30 o'clock last night.

A hurried examination showed that she was suffering from opium poisoning.

The doctors began work on her immediately, but despite their efforts she died a few hours afterwards, without regaining consciousness.

When an "Evening World" reporter called at the hospital this morning the house physician refused absolutely to talk about the case, further than to say that it was a case of opium poisoning.

The same source was also maintained at the house, where the unfortunate woman lived. Mrs. Decker was seen but would say nothing.

It was learned that Dr. Tolson, of 40 Seventh avenue, attended Mrs. Phillips.

When the reporter called at the doctor's house he was not at home, but the servant said that the doctor had been called to 49 Seventh avenue about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and sent somebody away to St. Vincent's Hospital.

He had said nothing about it being a case of opium poisoning.

Mrs. Phillips was a daughter of Col. Tyne, who lives in West Thirtieth street. He comes from a well-known Southern family.

Her husband is in the produce business with his father on West street.

Dr. Tolson, when seen later, said he was called over to the boarding-house, where he found Mrs. Phillips in a comatose state. He knew then that she could not live.

Dr. Tolson said that Mrs. Phillips was accustomed to use morphine and opium. He also said that he had treated her for a broken leg, which she received by being knocked down by a Seventh avenue car some time ago.

She then took much morphine to relieve the pain.

Although the facts seemed to point to suicide, the doctor said he did not believe that such was the case.

There has been a great deal of trouble in the family.

Col. Tyne and Mrs. Tyne have been separated for some time.

ARRESTED THE FEEGE TOO.

Edward Hogan Remanded with "Dude Burglar" George Ellis. Latter Believed to Belong to the Lambert Jewelry Robber Gang.

From the evidence collected by the police of the West Sixty-eighth street station it is pretty certain that George Ellis, the "dude burglar," arrested early yesterday morning in George Degenhart's saloon, 29 West Fifty-ninth street, is one of the crackmen who looted Lambert's jewelry store, Fifty-eighth street and Third street, of $5,000 worth of jewelry Dec. 2 last.

The police last night located the headquarters of the gang, of which it is believed Ellis is a star member. The members of the gang were warned before the detective could make a second arrest.

The police are very reticent concerning the matter and refuse to disclose the exact location of the rendezvous. It was learned, however, that the police have been in various parts of the city where the gang's stolen goods were stored.

Shortly before 10 o'clock this morning Detective Robert P. Beck, of the West Sixty-eighth street station, arrested Ellis and Hogan, who were charged with being a "fence."

Ellis was taken to the West Sixty-eighth street station, where he was held in the police lock-up. He was found there by the police.

Hogan and Ellis were arraigned before Justice Woodhull at the Criminal Court, today. Hogan showed the white leather and admitted that he had received the stolen goods from the jewelry store. He denied that he knew they were stolen.

Justice Woodhull advised him to make a confession and to make his own plea as to what he had done.

Both Hogan and Ellis were remanded to the West Sixty-eighth street station. The police are very reticent concerning the matter and refuse to disclose the exact location of the rendezvous.

CALLED AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

Officials, Congressmen and Diplomats Received by the President. New Year's Day Celebrated at the Executive Mansion.

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—New Year's opened here bright and clear, and the event of the morning and early afternoon was the Presidential reception at the White House. The Executive Mansion had been made specially attractive for the occasion. The floral decorations were of many colors, everywhere in profusion, and in the State dining-room patterned palms were placed, while a row of Chinese primroses stood on the mantel-piece in the Red Room, flanked and backed by green plants, and palms were clustered before the fireplace and in the corners.

The Blue Room, in which the President and the receiving party stood, shined with brilliant flower-effects. The daylight was woolly shut out of the room, and the great chandelier, with its thirty or more lights, was all ablaze. Before the window to the southward were grouped palm plants, the gorgeous ones were everywhere in profusion, and in the State dining-room patterned palms were placed, while a row of Chinese primroses stood on the mantel-piece in the Red Room, flanked and backed by green plants, and palms were clustered before the fireplace and in the corners.
